Sometimes we can't repair it, because it is too difficult. Some products are not designed to be repaired, or even designed to prevent it. In any case, it is always interesting to learn about these things. But keep in mind that there is no warranty whatsoever, and you run the risk that your product ends up worse than how you brought it.

DO YOU HAVE:

- A vacuum cleaner that doesn't suck when you want it to?
- A chair with a broken leg?
- A drill that doesn't turn?
- A computer with a mind of its own?
- A screen that can't be seen?
- A toy that doesn't want to play?

DONT THROW IT AWAY!

Come to the Repair Café, we will try our very best to help you fix it. We are a team of volunteers that gets excited by repairing stuff. You may like it, too. It is a great feeling to have the power over your stuff instead of the other way around.

We have tools, space, and knowledge. You can start yourself by taking things apart, and ask for help when you need it. We don't promise anything, but we use our best effort. Often it is easy, but someone just needs to show you how.

VOLUNTEERS NEEDED!

We could use more volunteers. Don't underestimate yourself, if you have performed some fixes yourself in the past, you can be a coach. It is a lot of fun and you won't be judged, just ask the other coaches when you're finding the limits of your capacity.

We will try to match your skill with something that's being requested.
